Summer GPS Trainings in Rangeley & Farmington

Farmington - GPS Training is ideal for hikers, hobbyists, geocashers, outdoorsmen, search & rescue teams, self-rescue or other outside activities. That's why Franklin County Soil & Water Conservation District is hosting three Introductory GPS classes this summer.

No previous GPS training is necessary. Trainings are scheduled for Saturday, June 20, 8 am to noon, in Farmington; Tuesday, July 18, 8 am to noon, from 8 am to noon at the Rangeley Public Library; and Tuesday, Aug. 11, 8 am to noon in Farmington. The Farmington locations will be announced at a later date.

Patty Cormier of the Maine Forest Service will conduct the training. Garmin GPS units will be provided for the hands-on learning about how to overcome some common challenges in the field.

The workshop cost is $ $15. Pre-registration and payment are required in advance.
